BETHEL AND VICINITY

Will Bean spent the week end with relatives at Kingfield. Mrs. E. P. Brown and daughter Martha motored to Lewiston Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Edwards are visiting in Waterbury, Vt., this week.

Mrs. Addie Vandenberg is the guest of relatives and friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vandenberg visited relatives here the first of the week.

Leslie Davis and son Richard went to Portland, South Windham and Lewiston on business Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Brown of Portland were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Brown for a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Brown entertained a family party of 14 as dinner guests Sunday at their camp at Grafton Notch.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark have returned home after a few days visit with their son, Albert Clark, and family at Melrose, Mass.

There was a fair attendance at the two performances of "Head Up," the play presented by the American Legion, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Metcalf of Farmington and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Mitchell and daughter of Augusta visited at Ernest Walker's over the week end.

Mrs. Emily Dexter, Department President of the American Legion Auxiliary, has reappointed Grace E. Coburn as Department chairman of Americanism.

Miss Phyllis Drake is making a good recovery at the St. Louis Hospital, Berlin, N. H., where she underwent surgery for appendicitis Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daye and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Day and two children of Bath were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Daye and Mrs. Adelaide Fish.

H. I. Bean has extended the side and end of his stable so as to provide more space in his gun room, additional rooms for his fur business, and space for another car.

The annual Harvest Supper, sponsored by the first group members of the Ladies' Aid, is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 8, at 6:15 p. m. in the Methodist church dining room.

The American Legion Auxiliary entertained their Legion at a supper in the Legion rooms Tuesday. The rooms were attractively decorated in keeping with Halloween and during supper stunts were performed by several of those present.

The menu consisted of baked beans, vegetable hash, hot rolls, squash and pumpkin pie and coffee. Halloween caps were presented to all present. There were 30 grown-ups and 20 children present.

The members of the Epworth League enjoyed a Halloween social at the Methodist church Friday evening. There were 32 present. The event was planned and carried out by Miss Margaret Hamlin, fourth vice-president of the League. The young people came dressed in costume and a prize was given to the boy and girl having the best costume. Miss Muriel Brink, dressed as a gypsy and serving as fortune teller, won first prize for girls. Marian Hutchins, dressed as a tramp, received first prize for boys. The evening's entertainment began with a march through the dungeon which was dimly lighted with Jack-o'-lanterns and where ghosts flitted about making queer sounds. Halloween games were enjoyed throughout the evening. Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. C. Haskell and Mrs. Leroy Hamlin.

"GRAM" DUNHAM PASSED AWAY TUESDAY

The death of Mrs. Emma Richardson Dunham, widow of Maine's famous old-time fiddler, Melle Dunham, occurred Tuesday afternoon at her home on Crockett's Ridge, Norway. "Gram" Dunham, as she was affectionately known, suffered a shock early in the fall and was critically ill at the C. M. G. Hospital, Lewiston, for several weeks. Her condition improved and she was able to return home Monday afternoon she suffered a relapse and failed rapidly.

Mrs. Dunham, who was her husband's companion when he paid a visit to Henry Ford soon after he won the fiddling championship in 1925, was an expert with the fishing rod and rifle. She spent her childhood in the neighborhood where Melle was born, and they attended school together.

She was born 76 years ago, the daughter of Calvin and Calista Churchill Richardson. She was married to Melle in 1875 and they were the parents of one daughter, Pearl, who became the wife of Nathan Noble. She died, leaving nine children, and "Melle and Gram" kept the family together. The oldest grandchild, Mrs. Ethna Dion, has cared for her during her illness.

ANNUAL DONATION WEEK FOR RUMFORD HOSPITAL

Hospital Donation Week, annually observed here for the benefit of the Rumford Community Hospital, will be held the week of November 6. It was announced this week by officials of the Ladies Auxiliary of the hospital in charge of whom the Donation Week is carried out.

The purpose of Hospital Donation Week is to aid the hospital through contribution of articles which may be used in the hospital including household commodities, food, towels, bedding, money—anything which could be used in the hospital, and as officials of the drive point out, anything which can be used in the home can be used in the hospital.

"Every Little Helps" It is hoped that the same spirit will prevail that has prompted the people of this community to give so generously to this most worthy cause in past years.

Remember that "Every Little Helps" barrels will be placed in two or three local stores to receive any article from a cake of soap to a bag of flour or sugar, and any gift large or small will be most appreciated.

Dish wipers, towels, napkins, white or unbleached cloth, jellies, preserves, fresh or canned vegetables and cooking utensils will be appreciated.

These gifts go far towards lowering the running expenses of the hospital. Give something. "Every Little Helps."

If you will telephone 125 someone will call at your home for your gift.

Mrs. Lennie Howe is working for Mrs. Alfretha Hall.

Walter Rand of Lewiston visited relatives in town Sunday.

Miss Esther Holt of Boston is visiting her sister, Mrs. Parker Conner, and family.

Miss Ethel Yeargle of Littleton visited her uncle, Allister Lowe, and family last week.

Frank Brown, John Howe, Carroll Abbott, and E. P. Brown were in Portland Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cash and Miss Lillian Talbot of Kittery were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Dunham.

SOUTH PARIS DEFEATED 13-0

Could Stop Paris' Air Attack—No Outstanding Players

Gould Academy kept its goal line uncrossed last Monday by defeating South Paris 13-0. The winners' goal was never threatened although South Paris tried hard to break through the "Blue and Gold" staunch defense by an air attack, but to no avail. Dwyer proved especially adept at knocking down passes while Martinson intercepted one Paris pass.

The local team did not play quite such a brand of ball as in the past but a seven day lay-off is bound to slow up a team. Martinson proved the most consistent ground gainer with a number of fine gains through the line. Traf. Bartlett made some nice gains but he was not so consistent as Martinson.

The Gould line played a good brand of ball with no outstanding player. Each man seemed to take a turn at making a sensational play. Davis made the South Paris backs look bewildered when he rushed in and took a double pass right out of their hands for a loss of about six yards. Grover made a nice play in the second period when he broke through to fall on a South Paris fumble on the Paris eight yard line. Gould showed power when they took advantage of this break to push over the second touch down.

In the final period the visitors opened up with every trick in the bag but at no time could they break loose to make themselves dangerous.

HERE AND THERE IN MAINE

Fire early Tuesday morning which broke out between George Brown's motorcycle repair shop and the cleaning and pressing establishment in the Wilson Walker garage building menaced the business section of Norway and caused several hundred dollars worth of damage.

The Maine Central Railroad Company has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to acquire three railroads, which it now leases, and to include them in its system. Permission is sought to buy not less than 95 per cent of the capital stock of the Portland and Rumford Falls Railroad, the Portland Rumford Falls Railway, and the Rumford Fall and Kennebec Lake Railroad. These lines are located in Maine and have been leased to the Maine Central since April, 1907.

Arthur Noel, "trouble shooter" for the Cumberland County Electric and Light Co., was elected and sworn in Tuesday morning, coming in contact with a 2000 volt line on Cumberland street. He was badly hurt, falling from the pole by the accident. He lost a wife and eight children.

The Bureau of the Census has reported according to figures received at the subsequent census of electrical industries for 1932 when in 1929 that the total output of generated electricity by the State of Maine, reported by electric light and power plants, was 762,111,856 kilowatt hours for 1932, compared with 666,446 for 1929, or an increase of 13.9 per cent. During the same period the generating capacity increased 47.8 per cent, from 179,384 kilowatts to 265,154.

The savings bank to be organized in Maine since 1907 was authorized to open today at Sanford. It is to be known as the Sanford Institution for Savings and does not replace any other financial institution in Sanford.

Governor Brann strongly urged the Federal Public Works Administration and the Federal Power Commission to take favorable action on the development of the Passamaquoddy power project, whereby electricity would be generated by action of the tides. The Governor believes that the project developed will be of lasting benefit to Maine and will help to reduce the unemployment situation in the State.

Miss Marada F. Adams of Portland, principal of the Emerson Grammar School is believed to be the oldest teacher in years of service in the United States. She has followed her profession 70 years, for the past 55 in the public schools of Portland.

Vernon L. Keene of Auburn was convicted Wednesday of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Gerald Langston of Lewiston at Old Orchard May 6 and sentenced to serve 10 to 15 years in State prison.

DAY SHUTNEY

Miss Florence Shatney of Randolph, Vt., and Burleigh Day of Gilead were united in marriage on Friday evening, Oct. 27, at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. A. F. Wolcott at Portland. The single ring service was used. The bride is the daughter of David Shatney of Norton, Vt., and is employed as a school teacher. The bridegroom is the son of Isaac and Day of Gilead. They will reside in Gilead.

STAY AT HOME AND SEE THE WORLD

We journeyed to Vienna, To Paris and to Wales, To Norway and to Denmark, By auto and by rail; To Egypt and to Smyrna, To China and Peru, To Sweden and to Poland,— Explored them through and through; We traveled on to Naples, To Lisbon and to Rome, To Dresden and to Athens, And there felt quite at home; We stopped a while at Belfast, At Calais and at York, At Argyle and Limerick, To hear the natives talk; We hied away to Milo, Palermo and Madrid, To Corea and to Gilead, By big, green forests hid; Then back, by way of Mexico, In sunshine and in rain,— In sunshiny and in rain,— Never left the State of Maine.

Yes, and while in Maine why not visit Bath, Belgrade, Bremen, Bristol, Canaan, Cambridge, Canton, Carmel, Carthage, Corinth, Etua, Falmouth, Frankfurt, Hanover, Hebron, Jerusalem, Lebanon, Leeds, Moscow, Newcasale, Newry, Oxford, Palmyra, Sorrento, Surry, Verona, Waterford, Yarmouth, and perhaps many other equally attractive "foreign" places in Maine?

RESOLUTIONS

WHEREAS, our Brother, John E. Richardson, member of Mountain View Grange, has been called to the great beyond to remind us of our frailties of life; and although we believe the all-seeing eyes of God are ever watching over us and that he doeth all things well, nevertheless we sorrow in our earthly way for our Brother:

RESOLVED, That we lose a faithful member and that we send a copy of the resolutions to the bereaved family extending our sympathy, that these resolutions be spread upon our records and printed in the Oxford County Citizen.

LIGHTING THE HEN COOP

"In producing eggs for the market of October, November, and December, when usually prices are better, use lights immediately and delay the period of molt," advises H. L. Richardson, poultry specialist for the Extension Service. "But if eggs are wanted for supplying a hatchery next winter or spring, it is all wrong to light the poultry house now.

"Although lights do not affect the hatchability of the eggs, lights in early fall result in reducing the supply of eggs in early spring when demand by hatcheries is at its peak."

GORHAM NORMAL NOTES

Bernice E. Dickerson

The Maine Teacher's Association held its annual meeting last week in Lewiston. The faculty of Gorham Normal School attended leaving the school activities in charge of the student government. Student teachers were chosen to conduct classes to be carried on in the usual manner. During Dr. Russell's absence the Young Men's Christian Association conducted the chapel exercises. Solos were sung by individual members of the school. The House Committee, of which Miss Barbara Howard of Rumford is a member, was in charge of the dormitories during the absence of the dean, Miss Nellie Jordan.

The Library Club held its annual banquet in East Hall dining room Tuesday evening. Mr. Ronald Hall of Oakland was toastmaster. Miss Jordan, a former teacher of Library Science, was the guest of honor. A delicious menu of steak, french fried potatoes, peas, hot rolls, coffee, and cream puffs was served. Miss Myrtle Pratt of Upton was among those present. She was invited by Miss Margaret Loring of Gray.

Miss Sonia Cohen of Rumford attended a Dramatic Club Meeting held recently in Miss Johnson's recitation room. At this meeting plays were discussed and one finally chosen to be presented Nov. 9 at the Superintendent's and Principal's Day. This play has a small cast which has not been chosen as yet.

Miss Avis Hinds presided at the regular meeting of the Glee Club held Friday. Plans were discussed for the party held Monday. Cakes were offered and games suggested. The rest of the club period was devoted to the singing of songs on which the club is practicing for entertainments coming in the near future.

The Outdoor Club held one of its series of hikes this week. The hikers went out the Fort Hill road through a cross road and back by way of the Gray Road. Miss Margaret Dalzell of Bethel was one of the hikers.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

The Death Angel entered our home on Sept. 20 and called our dearest Charter Member, our worthy mother, Leon Roberts, to that grange above. Though we mourn his going from us, we cannot wish him back.

For he has taken his long journey on that beautiful ship called "Rest."
Away from this world of sorrows
To a home of eternal rest.

Resolved, that these resolutions be spread on our records and published in the Bethel Citizen, and a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

One Byrd Ship Disabled Near the Start

The disabled Bear of Oakland, of Commander Byrd's Antarctic expedition, being brought to Southport, N. C., by the tug Blanche after an SOS had summoned aid to the foundering polar ship. Eleven days out of Boston, the Bear's machinery became crippled as she plowed through heavy seas off the Carolina coast.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

The last Sunday in October—a nice day, clear and bright. The harvest moon has gone. Goodbye to golden October days.

Everett Davis is working on the State highway in Upton. He has been there several weeks and has prospects of a long job.

Mrs. Jessie Andrews, who has been in poor health for some time is much improved though still taking medical treatments of a Lewiston specialist.

Roy Coffin of North Woodstock is working at Davis homestead.
Waldron Ryder, who has been working there has now employment in Greenwood at King's sawmill.

Road construction work is now being done on "The Gore," so called, employing some 20 men under the management of Road Commissioner Claude Cushman.

Frank Nash and Andrew Race are cutting wood for A. M. Andrews on the Andrews estate.

A. M. Andrews recently had new piping laid to the reservoir for supplying water for H. M. Andrews and A. M. Andrews' home places here.

Miss Minnie Stevens is much better and sits up a very little, an hour or less each day.

Miss Alta Hendrickson, a member of the West Paris High School class of 1930, will soon go to Massachusetts and take a school course at So. Lancaster. This school has a high standard in Bible instruction, which, to a good many, is a great incentive.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Roberts were made most happy by the safe arrival of a baby boy, born Sunday night at 10 o'clock. Mother and baby are doing nicely and are cared for by the baby's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Felt, at their home.

John Blasee, who has been working in this place for some time, has now commenced to work for Wesley Ring of Greenwood.

John Flegg, who has been working at Snow Falls, is at present sick and at home.

Charles Swinton, while working in the woods near Snow Falls, had the misfortune to be cut on the head by a falling limb, necessitating treatment by a doctor. Several stitches were necessary to close the wound.

Mr. and Mrs. Quimby Perham are visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Mildred Perham, Woodsum, and family at Saugus, Mass.
While there Mr. Perham will attend the annual meeting of the New England Milk Producers Association in Boston. Mr. Perham has been appointed as a delegate to represent the interests of milk producers in this town.

George W. Davis visited his son Guyon at Farmington Normal School Saturday.

Miss Mary Hendrickson, principal, and Mrs. Olive Davis, assistant, both teachers of Union School, attended the teachers' convention Thursday and Friday, Oct. 26 and 27, at Lewiston.

"Pete" Andrews is one of the lucky hunters, getting his deer while making his headquarters at Camp Moxie, Bingham, recently.

INDIANS LOOK FOR END OF HARD TIMES

Rich Quapaw Braves New Work on Roads.

Quapaw, Okla.—Prayers to the Spirit of the Happy Hunting do they get results when they are told by tribal medicine chief that Old Indians will tell you.

to the Great White Father at Washington—do they bring when sent by the younger men of the tribe? Most certainly they do.

Quapaw Indians, living on their reservation here, are much divided in the prayer problem. These Indians have been in a mess of financial trouble, and still are. The old Indians prayed to the Great Spirit while the young men took up matter with Franklin D. Roosevelt.

asked for an increase in the price of lead and zinc for a long time. Now relief has arrived. The Indians are rejoicing. Which two chiefs actually is to be credited for the aforesaid relief is a matter of opinion. One says it was the result of the annual dance.

Hit Them Hard.

It's just how bad things have hit the Indians. The present young Quapaw play has been reduced to riding in small motor cars and a former Indian woman has had to do a custom of giving birthday presents to several hundred relatives. The price of liquor—due to the inability of the redskins to pay—has come down $2.50 a gallon. The price of a divorce to a woman from an Indian man is next to nothing, whereas a few years ago almost any old man was worth $10,000 in the market.

The Indian spenders used the pocket ones of Fisher and Smith, now they are being sent into jail for law violations. A few days ago a Quapaw was placed in the Municipal Jail because he ran into a dump cart of that and upset it on the street and went about his fast life. A few years ago he could have paid off and upset another of that.

The Devil's promenade a crew is working on a public highway about half of them are Indians. A few years ago when they were all running and the Quapaw were drawing royalty checks thirty days they could not find labor. Now they are called to shovel gravel for flour.

The Quapaws own about 7,000 acres in the heart of the Picher lead and zinc fields. They have been paid over $7,000,000 in mine royalties and about $300,000 is held in reserve and doled out in small sums. Some of the Indians do not receive any dole at all as their mining land has been turned over to them, without supervision by the White Father at Washington. These are the young redskins who appealed for relief.

Poor at the Start.
When the Quapaws first came to Oklahoma and settled on the reservation they were painfully poor. In 1924 ore was found and since then several million dollars have been thrown away carelessly. No one can say the Indians have not done a good job of spending. The $25,000 homes in the clearing, pink porcelain bathtubs, walnut radio cases, thick rugs, plate-glass mirrors, and solid silver table services, to say nothing of dozens of $5,000 motor cars, tell tales of former hilarious prosperity.

But good times will come again to the Quapaws, for their lands are not denuded by any means of lead and zinc. Prices of ore have risen tremendously in the last few weeks, so the Indians are not so deeply bowed in grief they cannot see a rainbow in the sky. Most of them give the White Father at Washington credit.

Smithy's Home Remains Nearby Longfellow's Own

Cambridge, Mass.—The original home of the village smithy of Longfellow's famous poem is a local landmark. Built by one Torrey Hancock about 1811, the house in 1823 became the property of Dexter Pratt, whose brown inspired the verse familiar to every American school child.

Today the amber-colored mansion, a fringe of ivy around its roof, still stands on historic Brattle street, almost within sight of the huge Longfellow homestead.

Queer Taxes

Many queer taxes have been imposed from time to time by chancellors who were at their wit's end for means of raising money. William Pitt levied 5s. on every clock or timepiece. As a result these became scarce, and "Act of Parliament Clocks" were exhibited by keepers of inns for the benefit of their patrons. During the Napoleonic wars a tax on hair powder caused the fashion for powdered wigs and heads to die out in England. Lord Randolph Churchill once proposed a tax on sporting cartridges, for the farmers threatened to let the country become overrun with rabbits, and the idea was dropped. Montreal Herald.

GREENWOOD CENTER

Laura Turcotte, who has been staying at Gerald Robinson's has gone to South Bethel to live.

Ralph Abbott and Mr. Purlington of Mechanic Falls were at Abbott's cottage, Monday.

There was a school entertainment at the Greenwood Center school, Tuesday evening.

Cecile Roberts of Mechanic Falls has been visiting with her brother Roy Martin. Gordon and David Roberts of Locke Mills, visited there Sunday.

Glenn Martin shot a deer last week.

Flora Swan of Norway has been a recent visitor of Mrs. Laura Seames.

Lucy Cushman of Shelburne visited with Mary Martin this week. Mrs. Leslie Whitman and Lula Swan of Norway have been staying with their sister, Mrs. D. R. Cole, to help care for their mother, Mrs. Carrie Swan.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lathrop called on Mrs. Minnie Cole Sunday.

Word has been received from Reginald Roberts, who recently joined the navy. He is training at Norfolk, Virginia.

Keeneth and Harvey Black and a friend visited at Elmer Cole's recently.

Visitors and callers at R. L. Martin's over the week end were Everett Cross of Howe Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brazier, Mrs. Bertha Sykes and son Lloyd of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waterhouse of West Paris; Clarence Storer, Mrs. E. A. Farr and Miss Ellen Farr of West Poland.

Mrs. Carrie Swan is very ill with bronchial pneumonia at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. R. Cole. She is being cared for at the present time by Mrs. Edwin Perham of Bryant Pond.

Diagnosed His Own Case and Died as Predicted

Very few of us would go to any particular trouble to hear a sentence of death pronounced upon us, but that is exactly what a medical professor at Budapest did, says a writer in Pathunder Magazine. Confronted with disquieting symptoms, including a pain in the chest, he had his suspicions, but his colleagues would tell him nothing except that he was "all right."

Finally he wrote to a Vienna consultant, with whom he had corresponded but had never seen, telling him that he had a patient in whom he suspected cancer of the chest, and requested a verification of diagnosis. Then getting on the train, he presented himself as that patient. The Vienna doctor looked him over, told him he was getting along nicely, and sent him home. Then he wrote a letter to the Budapest professor, confirming his own diagnosis and saying the "patient" had but two weeks to live. The professor, who had lived a very secluded life, withdrew his savings and made whoopee the rest of his life, which lasted only a few days over the allotted two weeks.

Seattle-Alaska Motor Road Plan of Engineer

Helena, Mont.—Troy Carmichael, former Helena city engineer, has advanced a plan for construction of a $15,000,000 highway linking Seattle, Wash., with Fairbanks, Alaska. Carmichael proposes that construction of the highway be achieved through the cooperation of the United States and Canadian governments. Public relief funds would be used for the work.

10,000 Copies the First Week
When "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was first printed in book form it sold 10,000 copies the first week and 300,000 in the first year. Half a million copies had been translated into more than a score of foreign languages and dialects. It is estimated that the entire sale of the book in the years since it was written have exceeded 12,000,000, about 7,000,000 of which never paid any royalties to the author, being sold in foreign countries before the establishment of international copyright law. The copyright, under the then existing statute, expired a few years previous to the author's death in the late eighties.

Pam's silence was good-tempered but absolute. At what cost to herself no one would ever know, she had decided to dismiss that subject forever.

"There's a lady waiting for you, ma'am. An enormous lady, not so tall but awful wide." Buttons was standing in the outer lobby near the elevator and there was more than a hint of excitement in his voice.
"Gee, I betcha Tuffy Dorlan'll say I'm a liar when I tell him how big she is."

"Have there been any cancellations or telephone messages, Buttons?" Smif had been surprised that no further protests had followed Laura's visit.

"No cancellations, Madame. Two telephone calls. On your desk, Madame."

"Very good," said Smif. "I will ring when I want you."

She found an urgent message from Louise. Could she meet her for luncheon? Anywhere at all that she might suggest and any hour. Smif chuckled, remembering that she had a previous engagement to take lunch with a man whose very name she did not know. She told the maid who answered her ring that she was sorry she would be unable to meet her sister until five o'clock, when she would be at Pierre's.

The second call asked her to ring up a number that was not among those noted in her telephone register. No hurry about that. She dressed and at length rang the number indifferently. The first words spoken made her stiffly erect.

"It's Madame Saitou, isn't it?
Recognized your voice at once. I've sent you a client. Be an angel and convince her that I'm worse luck for her than seeing one crow on a Friday morning. Don't forget I'll be with you for lunch. I'm saving my appetite. Always had a passion for sandwiches." He hung up without giving her a chance for inquiry or reply. She, too, however, had recognized a voice and it did not take great acuteness to foresee that the large lady who had so excited Buttons would prove to be the Mercy of the merciless pursuit.

Smif was now eager to look the monster over for herself. She rang for Buttons.

"Tell the strange lady that I can't possibly see her for at least three-quarters of an hour," she instructed him. "I will sit her in if she will wait. Otherwise it will be two days before I can arrange for her. Saturday at ten is the only vacant time."

"Yes, Madame." Buttons made his military salute, at once descending from the official heights and lowering his voice confidentially: "Betcha she stays. Betcha she does.
She's crazy to get a hold of you."

His prophecy proved true. When the latest client was ushered out, the stranger was still patiently sitting in one of the little private rooms. At once Smif told Buttons to escort her to the lounge.

"Just wait till you clap eyes on her!" Buttons' tone was important, as if he took a personal pride in this exhibit. "She's a corker. I'll say I never saw her equal."

Yet for all the boy's warning, the woman who entered while he lingered at the threshold to observe the effect she produced, transcended anything Smif had imagined.

"This is a fabulous creature," Smif thought, "a fantastic design by Hokusai, a female hotel." But she met the lady indifferently, as if she found her nothing out of the ordinary, and Buttons, disappointed, fled to his own post.

"Madame Saitou?" Smif bowed an assent. Never, she told herself, had she seen so many dimples; dimpled chin, dimpled wrists, dimpled knuckles.

"I am surprised. You see my friend told me you were so reliable.
I expected some one much older."
There was no answer to this, and she went on: "My name is—"

Smif stopped her with a swiftly raised hand.
"I do not require the names of my consultants," she said, "I requently engage a barrister to remain anonymous."

"How dis- the strange smiled, disce- more dim-ples. "In my e- I was a sary. My name- I was a ton Mercedes—Miss Martha Washington Mercedes. My friends call me Mercy."

Smif accepted this information graciously. As nothing more was forthcoming, she suggested: "There is something you fancy I can do for you?"

At once the round blue eyes in the round baby face opposite her filled with tears.
"I suppose it all comes back to the fact that I've grown stout. A love affair is something to write poems about if you're built like a bean-pole. If you're like me, it's only a joke; and I'm in love. I'm just terribly in love." Mercy burst out. As if a cloud had burst, the tears became a flood.

"Cries easily," Smif registered mentally. "I wonder how much her feelings really amount to?"

The next moment she called herself hard-hearted, for Mercy raised streaming eyes to hers and spoke with telling simplicity.

"Please believe me and help me.
I didn't know people felt this way when they were in love. Maybe no one ever did before," she suggested hopefully.

"Well, your condition is not absolutely unique. Nor should I call it hopeless."

"I'm afraid you will when you hear all about it," Miss Mercedes sniffed. "I'm desperate. Johnny absolutely hates all fat women. I've put on a little weight lately and since then he certainly avoids me.

There's no mistaking that."

A little weight!
"You should never have allowed yourself to grow so large."
Mercy pouted as if she were a childish child.

"I've such a wonderful cook," she murmured with a guilty look.
"Discharge her."

"Oh, I couldn't do that. My dinners are celebrated."

"Then don't eat them."
"In that case Lucinda would leave of her own accord. She has often told me that she wouldn't stay with a lady who didn't appreciate her food. Anyway, I've a tiny appetite. It can't be what I eat that makes me fat. Really, I take only enough to keep my strength up.
Emotional as I am, and under such a fearful strain, I need nourishment. You do see that, Madame Saitou?"

"E'm," Smif pondered the point.
Plain to her was the fact that Miss Mercedes was a gourmet and probably a glutton. "In that case the only thing to do is to keep Lucinda and you apart for a time."

"You mean that I ought to stay here and reduce? And not see Johnny for ages—How could I bear it? Oh, Madame Saitou, is that all you can think of to help me?"

"It may not be all I can think of—at least it's the most obvious remedy, isn't it?" Smif smiled. "If the gentleman preferred you as you were before, it would seem only to be necessary now to remake yourself more nearly to his heart's desire."

Miss Mercedes' tears stopped.
"How beautifully you do say things," she beamed. "I must remake myself more nearly to his heart's desire? I think that's very lovely."

Since time was pressing, it did not seem worth while to point out that Fitzgerald had done more justice to Omar's thought. Smif began to sum up:

"As I understand your case, the only obstacle between you and your lover is your size. What is called for is self-denial on your part. I should not think of advising either diet or treatment. The most I should be willing to do is to suggest a physician who to my knowledge has been successful in similar cases."

Miss Mercedes now exhibited an unsuspected trace of native shrewdness.
"If you don't mind my asking, have you gone to him yourself?"

As Smif could read in her face that, if she had, her visitor did not think highly of the result, she permitted herself a broad grin.

"No, I've never taken any treatment. I can't afford to. My time is too valuable."

"I'm," said Miss Mercedes speediately.
"If you wish me to do so, I'll call the doctor this afternoon and speak about the case. If he says he can help you, I'll make an appointment for you and it will then be possible for you to decide for yourself whether it is worth while to begin his treatments."

"E'm," said Miss Mercedes again,
"I've got a better idea than that."

"You have?" said Smif.
"I have an idea that's nothing short of an inspiration," Miss Mercedes began firmly. "I only hope you'll agree to it." Smif waited expectantly and she went on: "You see, money's practically no object to me. I've plenty of my own, and for the last four years I've not begun to spend my income. Then Johnny's simply rolling. If I marry him I never mean to consider the price of anything again as long as I live. So, looking at this as a business proposition, it may pay me to find out what this treatment is worth before I try it on myself."

"And how do you propose to do that?" Smif inquired, although she had an inkling of what was agitating Miss Mercedes' shrewd mind.

"What is your idea?"
"To try it on you," Miss Mercedes answered simply.

"If I find him successful with you, it will give me confidence that he will be with me, too."

Smif's opinion of Mercedes' common sense, which had been low, was rising with every word she said now that the subject of her love affair was left in the background. "As to the remuneration, I should feel that you ought to be satisfied if I paid your doctor's bills."

"Sorry," said Smif briefly, "we'll let the matter drop. I do not find myself interested in your proposition. Suppose I give you Doctor Blanton's address and you can make arrangements with him or not as best suits you. Any good man would probably do as well for you, but I happen to have confidence in him."

"You think there is no other course open to me? What about mental release of some sort? Absent treatment? The power of mind over matter? I must do something.
I'd go through anything for Johnny's sake; it's only that I've made up my mind I want to see the result of treatment given some one else before I submit to it." Mercy whispered, yet it was evident that with her a mind made up was a mind made up once and for all time, and Smif was back-sitting bored.

"Really, Miss Mercedes," she began, "I do not believe that you should have any difficulty in finding some one who would accept an offer such as you suggest. If you added a small fee, I cannot help you there."

"Why won't you do it?" Feeling herself dismissed the lady began slowly to work her fat hands into gloves several sizes too small for her.

"Because I'm a business woman whose time has a very definite value. Moreover, I am by no means sure my size is not an asset in my business. There is something about it that inspires confidence. I might be making a mistake to reduce. At all events it would require a large bribe to induce me to run the risk."

"Very well," Miss Mercedes ejaculated in trembling tones, giving way with surprising suddenness.
"You shall name your price."

"Nor shall I undertake it except under a written agreement," Smif warned her, recognizing her client's vacillating disposition. "I shall expect ten thousand dollars. Moreover, to be fair to both of us, payment must be half in advance, half at the termination of Doctor Blanton's treatment. That is, when he has reduced me to what he decides to be a normal weight."

"How do I know that will make you slim enough? I want to be really slender; girlish, you know," Miss Mercedes was plainly wabbling again.

"I can't guarantee that," Smif returned calmly. "I refuse to take off a pound more than Doctor Blanton regards as safe. Really, Miss Mercedes, don't you think you are wasting time? What you require is some one more tractable than I—also cheaper," she added with a hint of contempt; for, after all, Smif was a lovely with a lovely's disregard for money, when she had
it. And Miss Mercedes sensed this, growing more eager the moment she feared Smif was inclined to draw back.

"I'll sign your agreement," she announced. "I'll pay anything in reason. Please have the paper made ready and I will make you out a check. It's a proof of my love for Johnny," she added, her voice trembling. "And I look on it as an investment," she ended, her practically again to the fore.

So said, so done, and Miss Mercedes wended her weighty way toward the elevator.

It is hoped that a great deal of interest will be shown in response to this new project. A further announcement will be given next week.

The Bethel Musicians met at the home of Mrs. S. S. Greenleaf Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 31, for their monthly meeting with 17 present. Chopin was the composer studied and the memory contest was composed of scales and chords. At the business session it was voted to have club plans. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Norman Hall and Wagner will be the composer studied. The memory contest will be a study of musician's pictures.

Independent, Personally Conducted Trips Abroad

There is a difference between the independent and the personally conducted trip abroad. A conducted tour is one arranged in advance by a tour company with a set itinerary and the traveler in under the guidance of a tour manager who attends to all details such as transfer of baggage, hotel reservations, sightseeing, etc., thus saving the traveler every possible inconvenience. For a person who has previously been to Europe the independent arrangements are usually more satisfactory and arrangements are made by a tour company for steamship reservations and all desirable hotel and sightseeing arrangements on the other side. The traveler is usually met at all stations and transferred to the hotel and coupons are issued for each excursion, hotel reservations, and he pays for all arrangements before he leaves the United States. The itinerary is elastic and can be changed en route, by dealing with the tourist company through whom arrangements were completed.

Indiana's Third Governor
A pioneer editor, William Hendricks, became the third governor of Indiana. Not only did he serve in the governor's office and in the United States senate, but he was an uncle of Thomas A. Hendricks who later became governor and Vice President of the United States.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Another contest is to be started by the same sides that waged the last one. Points are to be scored by attendance, deportment, tests passed. The losers this time are to furnish not only a feed to winners but also a social.

Because of a lack of meeting place the Scouts were forced to postpone the last two meetings and it is sincerely hoped that no more interruptions may occur in the Scout work.

Next week the troop is to go to Fuller hut for a social evening of games and talks. The Fuller hut, a gift from Mrs. Gehring, gives the troop a chance to enjoy a short hike and the benefit of a social hour in the woods.
